the mesa incident

"I do not own half life or steam they are owned by valve"

This is the view of a vortigaunt following the mesa research teams visit to the planet xen it is not based on the science teams encounters at the incident and what I write is my view on what a vortigaunt home world would be like and their slavery by the xen creatures ((If you don't like this story please tell me!))

This is my first fan fic!

Chapter 1: a steady pace and an unruly intrusion

My name is Satuno I am how you say a vortigaunt or as we are called by Nilihanth "the lowest of all life forms!" he even thinks lowly humans are above our holy intellect! Me and most of my race were taken from our beautiful home world of Occu and made to work for him and his army of soldiers or as we call them "the rift of the perfect universe" we vortigaunts were making steady progress on a new way to achieve universal peace as we are a generally pure race and think a universe is one of the creators holiest inventions aside from life. When a rift appeared in the middle of our temple of science a group of "grunts" began to make the way through the rift slowly poisoning our temple we couldn't fight back before we were before Nilihanth and he was telling us we were his slaves and that rebelling would end in the destruction of Occu so we obliged to his wish and were shackled in green energy shackles now I'm sitting in a cage made of yellow xen crystals I have been hearing reports all day ((if it is day)). That humans were seen in a cove gathering the yellow crystals and disappearing into a orange green rift. Nilihanth has ordered that all of his forces are to prepare for battle and as soon as we get a lock on the humans home planet we will be sent to kill the intruders of Nilihanth's planet even we slaves will be sent! Now some random grunt is coming to my cage its open and I'm drug away to a dark cove as I sit the grunts drag in an sleeping human and drive I spike trough his wrist to a wall he screams in pain and a grunt is looking at me he says "kill him and you will be fed!" so I stand and press my claws against his face I peel of his skin layer by layer till I see the bone I shove my claw into his eye and began to shock him with my energy attack green energy fills his body and screams fill the air his flesh around his other eye turns black and he falls silent deadâ€|the grunts laugh and give me a piece of moist dirt "eat!" so I ate and ate then I was drug back to my cage and was told more food would be given to me and freedom a possibility if I joined then in the attack on a place called "black mesa"â€|..here my story begins
